Document for Clients who Fall Outside IBKR's Qualified Client Definition

You are receiving this document because you are paying a performance-based fee to your advisor for managing your IB account. Under U.S. securities rules, advisors can only charge performance-based fees in certain circumstances. Specifically, Rule 205-3 of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 permits investment advisers to receive performance-based compensation when the client is a "Qualified Client." A qualified client is a client that either:

1. has at least $1.4 million in assets under management with the investment adviser immediately after entering into the advisory contract; or
2. the investment adviser reasonably believes, immediately prior to entering into the contract, has a net worth of more than $2.7 million.

These amounts are adjusted every 5 years by the SEC and state regulations may differ. State registered advisors must ensure they are in compliance with their local rules.

You currently have less than $1.4 million in the IBKR account under your advisor, and the latest information that IBKR has on file for your account shows that you have declared a stated liquid net worth between $1 million and $5 million. As a result, we cannot determine from the data on file whether you are a Qualified Client.

If you are indeed a Qualified Client under U.S. securities rules and are eligible to pay your advisor a performance-based fee because you have at least $2.7 million liquid net worth and/or your advisor manages at least $1.4 million on your behalf (including in accounts held outside of IBKR), please sign this document below and return it to IBKR or to your advisor. Please also log into your IBKR account(s) and update any information as necessary.

If you have any questions regarding this form or your IBKR account, please contact your advisor or IBKR Customer Service using one of the methods outlined on the IBKR website here.
(<https://www.interactivebrokers.com/en/support/individuals.php>)

Please note that Interactive Brokers periodically reviews accounts to determine whether they appear eligible to pay performance-based compensation under U.S. Securities rules. If we determine that you are not eligible to pay performance-based compensation based on the information we have available, we will no longer facilitate these payments and will terminate performance fee configurations that you are paying your advisor.
